Road trade may be delayed

A suggestion that the Ministry of Transportation and Communications take over the Vankoughnet Road, converting it to a class one hundred highway, if the municipalities in Muskoka and Haliburton County agree to take over a similar distance of provincial highways, may have run into a snag.

Jurisdiction of the Vankoughnet Road is currently split between Haliburton County and the District Municipality of Muskoka.

At the June County Council meeting it was agreed that the county roads department would take over a portion of Highway 519 from Highway 530 to Redstone and Highway 519 from Haliburton Village to Highway 121 in exchange for the MTC acquiring the Vankoughnet Road.

The problem in the exchange is not occurring at this end of the Vankoughnet Road, but rather in Muskoka.

According to the clerk treasurer of the District Municipality of Muskoka, Mr. Williams, the exchange has not been readily accepted by municipalities in that district. He pointed out that the district government does not have responsibility for the maintenance of area roads, so that any exchange with the provincial government will place a greater burden on local townships for road maintenance.

"The exchange is simply unacceptable to some of the municipalities," Williams commented. He said the townships are concerned highways coming under their jurisdiction would be maintained to MTC standards.

Under the terms of the proposal, the MTC stated that municipalities at both ends of the Vankoughnet Road had to agree to the trade before it would be completed.

Williams explained that one of the highways which the MTC has offered to exchange for the Vankoughnet Road is number 169, a route leading to Sudbury. "The MTC keeps that highway scraped bare in the winter months, and it needs almost constant attention. The municipality which would be responsible for that section of road does not feel it could keep up that standard of maintenance."

The clerk said that several different trades have been suggested by the MTC but the municipalities have objected strongly if it means an addition of mileage to their work area.

"The situation in Haliburton is simpler," Williams pointed out. "The council which accepts the trade is the same body which will be responsible for the maintenance of the roads. In Muskoka, the district council is responsible for making the trade with the MTC but the responsibility for maintaining the highways falls to local townships."

Williams said he felt there was general agreement that the MTC take over the Vankoughnet Road but little consensus on what roads should be taken over by the municipalities.

While the Haliburton County Council did accept the exchange proposal, it was not with total agreement. Reeve Bob Vick of Snowdon Township, where a large portion of Highway 519 is located, objected strongly to the move. He opposed it because of what he believed would be a reduction in maintenance and possible loss of jobs in the area.

While most townships in Muskoka are generally unwilling to accept the responsibility of the extra highway miles at least one, Bracebridge, is worried about the loss of mileage in its system.

Most of the Vankoughnet Road from Highway 11 to the border of Haliburton County, is in Bracebridge Township. The council there has expressed concern that the loss of such a large portion of the road system could result in lay-offs in its road department.

So, for the moment, the possibility that the Vankoughnet Road may become a class 100 highway under MTC jurisdiction is stymied. Unless a suitable trade of road mileages in Muskoka can be found, it is unlikely the plan will proceed as proposed.

Board plans to build own offices

Plans for the construction of a new administration building were approved at the August 12 meeting of the Haliburton County Board of Education.

A contract, in the amount of $66,843 was awarded to John Beachli Construction of Haliburton for the new structure. The building is to be located on land already owned by the school board between the High School and senior elementary school in Haliburton.

Two other contractors, Elstone Limited and Don Campbell, also bid on the job.

According to the director of education, J. Douglas Hodgson, construction is expected to begin shortly on the building. It will measure 41 feet by 42 feet and include two levels. The board meeting room and vault will be located on the first floor while offices for the various board officials will be located on the second level.

The board currently rents space in a downtown Haliburton block. A recent hike in the rent of those premises was apparently one of the major factors in the decision of the board to build their own centre. According to Hodgson it was expected that the building will have paid for itself, because of the savings in rent, in a short period of time.

He noted that the services for the new building are already in place or can be brought in from the nearby senior elementary school.

The board has apparently been considering the construction of their own building for a number of years.

The director of business affairs for the board, Jim Leworthy, noted that county ratepayers will not notice an increase in taxes to cover the cost of the new building. The board has accumulated a reserve fund of $245,000 over the past years and money in this capital account will be used to cover the cost. There is no financial assistance from the province for administration buildings.

Leworthy said that the building would probably save the taxpayers money. He noted that the renewal of the lease for the present offices amounted to $58,000 for the next five years. In addition, the board was responsible for the heating costs at the present office complex.

One of the features of the new building will be the use of heat pumps for heating and cooling. The building will also be well insulated with R-32 factor in the ceiling.

Leworthy expected the final cost for the new building, once the additional fixtures have been added, to be no greater than $70,000. This amount, Leworthy claims, can be recovered within the first five to ten years of the building's use.

Minden backs railway objection

Anson, Hindon and Minden Township council have endorsed the efforts of the Haliburton County Council in attempting to stop the abandonment of the CNR line connecting Haliburton Village and Lindsay.

The support came in the form of a resolution passed at the August 13 meeting.

According to that motion, the council, "...wholeheartedly supports the efforts of the Provisional County of Haliburton to retain the railway in Haliburton County."

It was noted that even though the rail line does not pass through Anson, Hindon and Minden Township, all townships in the county benefit from the existence of that line.

The councillors were told that the county had set aside $3000 to help prepare its case against the move by Canadian National Railway and, on a per capita basis, the municipality's share would be $546. It was pointed out as well that the townships of Dysart et al and Snowdon would be shouldering a major portion of the cost of opposing the application. The railway cuts through these two townships.

FROM THE CHAMBER

By Bob Stinson

At their directors last meeting the Chamber set October 1st as the tentative date for this year's annual meeting. The location has not yet been established and proposals are invited from any facilities wishing to hold this annual event.

Each year at the Chamber's annual meeting an award is made to the "Highlander of the Year". This award is made to honor any citizen of our community who in the opinion of the board has displayed a notable amount of community spirit and effort. Since its inception the award has been bestowed upon Roy Bates for his pioneer efforts with the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association, Gary Agnew for his many community efforts in and around Wilberforce, Len Salvatori for his continuing work with the youth of our community, and to Carol Finn for her many efforts with the Guild of Fine Arts and the establishment of the Rail's End Gallery.

The Chamber also awards on occasion, but not necessarily annually, honorary memberships in the Chamber of Commerce. This award is for individuals who have contributed an exceptional service to the Chamber of Commerce in particular. This honour has been bestowed upon Marion Arntfield, who over the years served as a director, secretary, and acting manager, to the Chamber and Ron Curry who provided much of the leadership to the chamber through its formative years.

At its September meeting the board of directors will make decisions in regards to both these awards, and prior to that time invite proposals from the membership. If you wish to nominate someone for either of these awards contact either the Chamber office or a member of the board of directors.

Water levels committee want your input

The water levels committee for the County met last Sunday with representatives of the Trent-Severn Authority and Parks Canada. It was generally agreed that under very trying circumstances this summer the Trent-Severn people have done everything possible to try to accommodate as many people as possible. From letters received however, and from comments heard by members of the committee, it became obvious that all lakes do not function well at the same percentage of capacity. It was therefore felt that some reading should be obtained from cottagers and businesses on each lake as to what the best levels would be for their particular lake to strive for. There is no guarantee that this could be attained, but at least a specific goal could be established.

Letters will be going out to the executive of cottagers associations for input on this question, and the Chamber will be attempting to take a reading on this from business members. We would therefore appreciate comment from all commercial operators situated on lakes in this regard.

Increase your profits

On August 27th at Pine-Stone Inn the Federal Business Development Bank will host a seminar on "Increasing your profits". This is an all day seminar on a key topic for this particular time of year. There are few here in the Highlands who can afford not to be concerned with increasing profits as the busy summer tourist season begins to wind down. Registration is only $30.00 per person and you may register by calling Cathy McNeil at 705-7480-3241.

Rail hearing for Haliburton

In a letter to the transport commission from the Chamber of Commerce an appeal was made to hold a hearing in Haliburton as well as in Lindsay, in regard to the C.N.R.'s proposal to abandon the railroad line. The commission has accepted that proposal and has now scheduled a hearing in Haliburton on September 10th, the day following the original scheduled date in Lindsay. Now that a hearing is being held here we certainly hope that a good turn out will be in evidence, and that everyone who has ever used the railroad, or would ever use the railroad, will prepare a presentation for that meeting. The Chamber has prepared guidelines on preparing a presentation and will be pleased to provide them to anyone requiring them. Please call the Chamber office at 286-1760 for further information.

Optimism follows DREE meeting

A feeling of "cautious optimism" was the way one representative described the outcome of a meeting Thursday with David Graham of the federal Department of Regional Economic Expansion (DREE).

Graham was in the county to hear submissions from the various sectors in the county and assess on a first hand basis the need for DREE funding in the area.

Attending the meeting were representatives of Haliburton County Council, Warden Malcolm McGillivray, Dysart Reeve Murray Feary and Stanhope Reeve Jim Harrison, Bob Stinson, secretary of the economic development commission and the Haliburton County Chamber of Commerce, Art Ward representing the tourist industry, Grenville Martin representing industry, MPP John Eakins and MP Bill Scott.

According to Stinson, the DREE representative was receptive to the submissions made by the Haliburton officials. In particular, Graham indicated he was pleased with the positive, forward-looking approach of the presentations.

Graham indicated that further investigations are going to be needed before any final decision is taken on whether this area will be included in a DREE program. It was also suggested that the county may be able to take advantage of federal-provincial assistance under a program other than DREE, although no details were made available.

On Friday, Graham was taken on a tour of the county to enable him to become more familiar with the area.

While no definite date for a future meeting was set, Graham apparently did indicate that he would be meeting with local officials after further studies had been carried out.

A reasoned approach

Unlike many other similar organizations, the Soyer's Lake Property Owner's Association has taken a reasoned and carefully thought-out approach in its presentation of objections offered in regard to the development proposed for the lake. For this they are to be congratulated.

The association, through its president L. McCorrison, has laid before the Anson, Hindon and Minden Township council reasonable arguments for reducing the number of lots in the subdivision and increasing the minimum lake frontage for each lot. (The association would like to see the number cut from 17 to 11 and the frontage increased to 150 feet.)

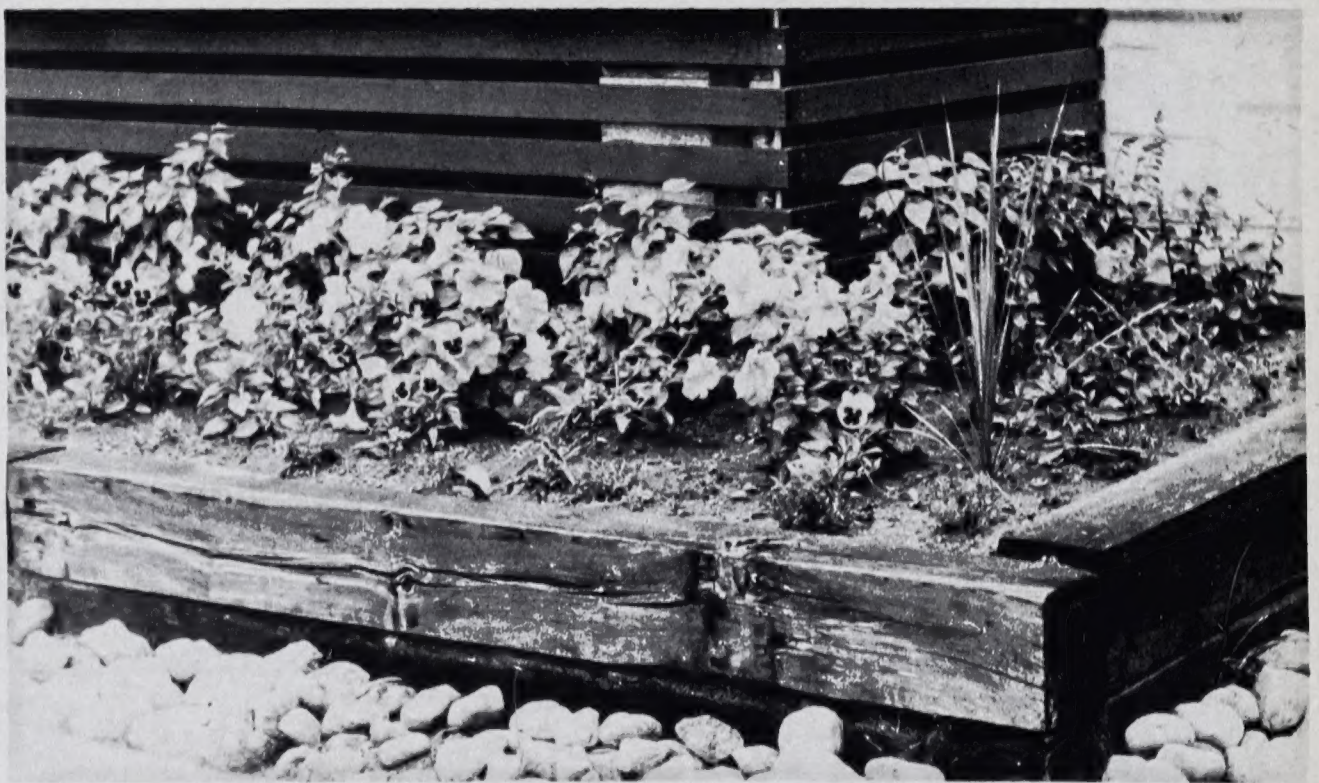

The members have shown concern for the quality of life on and around the lake. Their action speaks highly of their stewardship of the land and water and also of the quality of recreational experience they want the owners of the new lots in the subdivision to share as well.

So many cottage or lake associations take an obstinately preserve stand against any development on "their preserve." It is natural to want to protect the genial balance now in place from the intrusion of outsiders, but one often gets the feeling that this attitude is taken to extremes. Certainly care must be taken to protect the water quality and surrounding environment, however, protection does not always mean a complete embargo on development.

The Soyers Lake property owners have realized, to their credit, that an approach which stresses carefully planned development is better than head-in-the-sand negativism exhibited by many groups in similar situations.

We think the Anson, Hindon, and Minden Township council was correct in endorsing the stand of the property owners and should continue to back the association. We also think the Ontario Municipal Board will find merit in their arguments and attitude of the property owners.

Lakeshore development in the Highlands, or any recreational area, should be a two-way street. Present property owners should realize that unless it can be conclusively shown that a development will harm the lake and surrounding environment, it should not be stymied on purely emotional or "we don't want to share" attitudes. Likewise, the developers must take into consideration the legitimate concerns of those who have a long-standing interest in the future of the lake.

This is just a small part of the floral display which graces the home of Murray Neave, Twelve Mile Lake. The colourful display was awarded first prize in the Minden and District Horticultural Society's first annual Flower and Vegetable Show. Complete results of the competition can be found on page 5.

by Ron Reid of the Federation of Ontario Naturalists

Bobby Voland, wherever you are, you had better keep your head low! And Tom, and Harry, and Jean, and all your other friends too! For Bobby and his cohorts spend their time engaged in a particularly irritating form of vandalism - painting their names on roadside rocks.

This deliberate marring of the landscape has been a problem for years along rock cuts in major highways through cottage country, such as Highway 69. But the plague is spreading - over the past two years the craggy limestone cliffs of the Bruce Peninsula have begun to be littered with this multi-coloured graffiti too. Even in the wilds along the Spanish River, accessible only by boat, a magnificent rock face is crowned by residues from "Pat and Mike".

What kind of psychological quirk motivates these modern-day rock-painters? Is it their suppressed hostility, determined to inflict their frustrations on the rest of society by defacing anything of beauty? Or perhaps a way of conquering the wilderness by making your mark, like a wolf staking out his territory by peeing on the bushes? Maybe it's just a good old-fashioned competition, American-style, to see who can scale the highest cliff or vandalize in the brightest hues.

The psychologists are welcome to speculate on these hypothetical causes at length. But the solutions, if there are any, are likely to be more pragmatic. The Ministry of Transportation at least tries to remove the symptoms, by painting them over in a neutral colour, but that's an uphill battle. In California, a proposed law would restrict the sale of cans of paint to anyone under 18, in an attempt to curb their graffiti explosion.

But if you catch anyone in the act, your choices are limited. You could call the police to lay charges, or perhaps follow the lead of one of my acquaintances, who supervised while the youthful offenders removed their handiwork with wire brushes. Her cure may not have been pleasant, but I suspect it cured permanently the desire of these young vandals for any more rock painting!

Fund raising for centre continues

The Minden Curling Club is currently in the midst of a campaign to raise funds for a new building.

The curling club and recreation centre, which is to be constructed adjacent to the community centre is slated for completion before this year's curling season starts.

As part of the fund raising effort, the club is holding a 50-50 draw each month. The winners of the draws so far are: March, Bob Mann of Stanhope; April, Paul Prentice of Minden; May, Norma Davies of Minden; June, Ron Murdock of Minden; and July, Eileen Simmons of Irondale.

In addition to the 50-50 draw, the club is also selling raffle tickets on a wood burning stove and propane barbecue. These items have been donated to the fund raising effort by Lakewood Stoves and Superior Propane.

Anyone wishing to purchase a ticket on these items or wanting to make a donation to the building fund, can contact the building fund campaign organizer, Al Mayo, at the Toronto-Dominion Bank. Receipts for income tax purposes are available.

Library-cultural centre moves ahead

A major hurdle in the long road to a new library-cultural centre complex was crossed last Wednesday as the Anson, Hindon and Minden Township council agreed to call tenders for the construction of the building.

The first phase of that process, the laying of the cement pad for the building, has started already. An announcement regarding this portion of the work appears in today's newspaper.

Two cement pads will be poured on the Bobcaygeon Road north site. One will be for the library-cultural centre, while the second will be for the present library, which will be moved to the site and preserved as an historic building. The present library was once used as a bank and was located where the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce is now situated.

Building committee officials and the engineer retained by the municipality for the building, Godfrey Saunders, are currently in the process of preparing the specifications for the building and tenders for this portion of the construction should be called shortly.

The new building will be approximately 36 by 64 feet with an 11 by 32 foot entrance way and office area at the front. A large common room, 18 by 36 feet will be used for meetings, showing films and other group activities. The library portion of the structure will occupy a 25 by 36 foot space while the proposal for the art gallery calls for a 20 by 15 foot sized room.

The exterior of the building will be covered with split concrete blocks and will have a sloping gable end roof.

Included in the plan for the new complex are offices, washrooms, a workroom and an art storage room.

Paddler's rest not the best

Concern has been expressed about the wisdom, and certainly the decorum, of some of the youths participating in canoe trips through the Haliburton Highlands. The concern was raised at the August 13 meeting of Anson, Hindon and Minden Township council.

From reports and complaints received by the council it would appear that members of canoe trips have been using inappropriate locations for, as the agenda for the meeting ably put it, relief. It was reported that at on at least one occasion the small rock island on Lake Kashagawigamog, visible from the main street of Ingoldsby, was used for this purpose.

The council contacted a representative of the camps located in the area. He replied by noting that, while no expert in the matter, he was certain that most camps instructed their canoe expeditionists to dig a proper pit for such purposes and to seek a secluded location.

The spokesman for the camps said he felt the problem was not a big one and that only a few individuals were responsible for the stain on the reputation of all trippers.

It was suggested that the municipality and the Ministry of Natural Resources might consider providing privies in areas of heavy use to accommodate the needs of the campers. However, no action was taken in this regard.

The camps in the municipality are to be contacted with a request being made that those youngsters and leaders taking canoe trips be informed of the proper method of dealing with these inevitable situations.

Pick of the crop at first exhibition

The Minden and District Horticultural Society's first Flower and Vegetable show held last week proved to be a great success.

The show, at the parish hall of St. Paul's Anglican Church, attracted an excellent display of flowers and vegetables from area gardens. As well a large number of people from the community stopped by to view the displays and enjoy some refreshments.

The competition was keen in most categories and the quality of the exhibits was high. Winners of individual gift prizes in special sections were:

Developer challenges change suggested by council on lake

Minden Township council has deferred until September any reconsideration of a motion passed at the July 23 meeting recommending that the number of lots in a subdivision on Soyars Lake be reduced from 17 to 11.

The developer and a spokesman for the developer appeared before the council August 13 to object to the motion.

D. Ewart, who spoke for the developer V. Hodgson, complained that the council had changed its mind. He pointed out that when the plan had first been brought to the council for consideration it specified 100 foot frontage on the lake for each lot. "The council agreed with the plan at the time," Ewart noted.

The spokesman also pointed out that the municipal by-law governing the size of seasonal residential lots in the township states that the frontage need be no more than 100 feet. Ewart said the developer was only following the regulations as set out in the township's restricted area by-law. "The subdivision meets the existing requirements," he told the group.

The council changed its mind on the frontage and number of lots in the subdivision after a presentation by Mr. L. McCorrison, president of the lake's property owners' association. He told the July 23 meeting that the lake was becoming over crowded and that there was serious concern about the quality of the water if the development was allowed to proceed.

The developer told the council he was aware of a letter being circulated to the property owners which referred to the "sensitive natural environments" which the association felt was going to be hurt by the development. Ewart said he had another letter from Ontario Environment Minister Harry Parrott which stated the subdivision would have no impact on the quality of water in the lake.

Ewart also noted that the letter to the cottagers had said there were "other reasons" why they should object to the proposal. The spokesman pointed out that these "other reasons" had not been made public and he would like to know what was meant by the term.

"I get the feeling this is all a matter of 'we were here first' argument, and 'we don't want any more development'," Ewart told the meeting. "Progress and development cannot be stopped," he stated.

Reeve Sinclair Nesbitt noted that the council's motion of July 23 was a recommendation to be considered by the Ontario Municipal board when the hearings in the subdivision are held. He pointed out that the developer can challenge the townships stand at that time.

The developer, V. Hodgson, said there were no assurances that if he agrees with the changes now, that there would not be more objections from the property owners when the OMB hearings are held. "One of my prime concerns is that the spokesman for the Soyars Lake Property Owners' Association does not speak for everyone on the lake. There could be further objections from other property owners even if I do agree with reducing the number of lots from 17 to 11," Hodgson said.

Councillor Stuart Brandon suggested that if the council is willing to request one developer to change his minimum frontage to 150 feet, it should be willing to demand that of all property owners on the lake. A contingent of about 15 property owners were in attendance at the meeting and some indicated they would be willing to accept this restriction for their property.

Nesbitt noted that such a restriction would involve amending the by-law for just one lake. "We have to have some growth in this township," Nesbitt declared, "or these people (the cottagers) are not going to be able to pay their taxes here and in Toronto."

The councillors then met for about 25 minutes with the developer in closed session.

Following the secret meeting a spokesman for the property owners, D. Morrison, addressed the council. He reiterated a number of arguments heard at the July meeting. Morrison, a planner, said he was not impressed with the layout of the subdivision. He said he felt that a great deal of planning did not go into preparing some lots in the subdivision.

Morrison also noted that the township council should not be concerned about the commercial viability of a subdivision such as the one being proposed.

The council is expected to deal with the question again at the September 10 meeting.

Windsurfing: sport of the future

- by Sue Scott -

After a career as a professional skier, I asked Nick Lehoczy why he chose to take up and teach the sport of windsurfing. His answer - windsurfing is the sport of the future.

Lehoczy's reasons for his statement are quite simple.

First, windsurfing equipment consists of a surf board and a sail which attaches to it. That's all one needs.

Second, this equipment is easily and quickly assembled and disassembled.

Third, windsurfing combines the skills of a variety of sports such as snow-skiing, water-skiing, surfing and hang-gliding.

I found out for myself that the best reason is because it's fun and challenging if one can remember and employ the strategy Lehoczy teaches.

Windsurfing started back in the late sixties and, in 1974, the first school was opened in the United States.

At that time, a man named Glenn Taylor invented a dry land windsurfing simulator to be used to teach beginners. Schools around the world now use this method.

Lehoczy said that the simulator is really the best way to learn the sport. For a beginner, he explained, it would be hard to go right out on the water and attempt to watch the instructor while at the same time trying to imitate the techniques.

By using the simulator, he said, he is able to go over the techniques repeatedly, then can have the student repeat them several times to make sure he or she has mastered the particular manoeuvre.

There are three main components to windsurfing. The board, the daggerboard and the sail.

The daggerboard is inserted through the board and into underwater. It helps to regulate the turning motion of the board when it is in the water. Early experimenters reported that without the daggerboard, the board tended to "fishtail" when it moved.

The pointed end of the board is the tip or bow and the flat end is the stern.

The sail assembly consists of the mast, the mast tip, the mast base and the booms.

The booms, which sailors describe as having a "wish-bone" appearance, and the sail are attached to the mast with ropes. The boom is at right angles to the sail and the boom is what the student holds when sailing.

The other important part of the equipment is the uphaul. This is the rope that is tied to the mast at its midpoint and the boom. The uphaul is used to pull the sail up from the water to begin sailing.

Setting sail

Lehoczy demonstrated how to get on the board, pick up the uphaul, stand up and lift up the sail.

I had to kneel on the board and then reach for the uphaul. Then, pushing the board away again back to a 90 degree angle to the sail, I stood up and lifted the sail.

Lehoczy then showed me how to manoeuvre my hands from the uphaul to the boom, how to steer and turn the sail.

The day I went for my lesson, it was windy so that even when I was practicing on land, I had actual wind conditions that tossed and turned the board just as if I was on water.

Lehoczy had me repeat the manoeuvres several times to make sure I had learned them properly.

Then he smiled and asked if I was ready for the ultimate test - the water test.

The last thing Lehoczy teaches before he takes a student out is how to sail in under different wind conditions and in different directions.

This is one of the more difficult things to remember when one is out on the water.

The first thing to make sure is that the wind is at one's back. Lehoczy said it is impossible to sail when the wind is in one's face.

"Running" is the term that describes sailing in the direction of the wind.

Sailing into the wind requires a little strategy. Lehoczy said the student must attempt to zig-zag course always making sure the back is facing the wind.

By the time we got out to the selected spot, the wind had picked up considerably and was gusty.

Lehoczy went out first to give an idea of what he wanted me to do.

Then it was my turn. I got on the board, scissored it, took the uphaul, pushed back to 90 degree angle and stood up.

Lifting the sail was a little more difficult than it had been on land because the sail was slightly underwater when I started lifting.

I positioned my right foot as near as possible to the mast base as Lehoczy had instructed me to do and my left foot was on top of the daggerboard, right in the centre.

I was so worried about getting everything right when I realized that I was sailing.

The wind unfortunately played havoc with the sail and I had difficulty controlling and steering.

I kept my balance well until one gust caught me off guard and I was in the water before I could do anything.

By the time we finished, I noticed that we had been out about two-and-a-half hours.

First year

Lehoczy has had his home on Eagle Lake for about two years but this is his first year teaching windsurfing. In addition, he rents and repairs windsurfers.

The sport actually has its roots in California although Europe was the first to conceive of a dry land simulator. They also opened the first windsurfing school.

However, without the effort of two creative Americans, windsurfing might not be the popular sport it is now.

At a party, the host, a computer software vice-president and an aircraft builder noticed a surfboard with a sail attached to it leaning against another guest's car.

The two realized the potential of sailing and surfing, got their idea patented and started a new company, Windsurfer International Inc.

By the early 70's, the sport had caught on in Europe and two years later the first school in the United States was opened using an American model of the land simulator.

By 1976, an estimated 20,000 Windsurfers had been built.

There are basically two types of boards now. The "Star" used to teach and the "Windsurfer" for advanced and professional sailors.

The types of sails range from the junior 28 sq. ft., the 56 sq. ft., regular, the Hawaiian 60 sq. ft. and the high wind sail which is 43 sq. ft.

In Canada, Lehoczy estimated that last year about 6,000 windsurfers were sold and this year, so far, about 12,000 have been sold.

Lehoczy said anyone over 65 pounds can begin windsurfing.

Originally from Hungary, he and his wife and their children all windsurf. Lehoczy said it's a great way to exercise to keep in shape.

"About 25 to 30 minutes is enough activity for anyone in a day," he says.

After about 30 hours of practice, says Lehoczy, one should be considered fairly proficient in the sport. After that, it's clear sailing.

Cottagers want culverts to improve water quality

Cottagers on Shuyler's Island in Horseshoe Lake are going to have to wait a little longer if they want a definite answer from Anson, Hindon and Minden Township council. According to a spokesman for the group, Gerry MacDonald, they have already been waiting for three years.

The problem stems from the fact that their island, on the east side of the lake, is joined to the mainland by a causeway. The gravel road barely a few feet above the high water level, provides the island cottagers with year-round access to their property. However, the causeway has also hampered the flow of water in the lake and, according to MacDonald, the water trapped behind the causeway is deteriorating in quality.

The spokesman for the island group appeared before the August 13 meeting of township council.

He told the council that scum is growing on the surface of the water in the back portion and that the water has an odour and is becoming undrinkable. He said the majority of people on the island are in favour of the installation of four more 30 inch culverts in the causeway to allow the water to circulate.

MacDonald noted that there are already two culverts in the road. One is apparently covered in gravel and not allowing the water to move while a second is in use. "Usually at this time of the year that second culvert is 'high and dry'," MacDonald told the council. It is only because of the high water levels this summer that the culvert is helping to move the water." He said however, that more are needed.

MacDonald said the lake association was willing to meet a portion of the cost of installation of the culverts and if the municipality found the cost to be prohibitive, it was willing to undertake the project with the approval and guidance of the township.

Reeve Sinclair Nesbitt said that caution was needed before any digging was done on the causeway. He told the meeting that during the construction of the road it was obvious that the land under the water was very unstable. He said there could be problems if the base that now exists for the causeway is disturbed.

Nesbitt also pointed out that the township could be jeopardising the subsidy it receives from the Ministry of Transportation and Communications for the upkeep of the road onto the island. He noted that an MTC report on the need for more culverts on the road was non-committal. MacDonald suggested that the ministry might be unwilling to act because there hadn't been enough pressure applied.

"We have been working on this for the past three years," MacDonald stated, "and we would like to get some action on it."

Councillor Stuart Brandon said there was no indication that the installation of the four culverts would indeed solve the problem of the stagnant water. He suggested that an engineering study be carried out to determine if the culverts would be the answer. "If we go ahead without the study we may find we have just thrown our money away. We should try to avoid the unnecessary expense," the councillor said.

The meeting was told that a wooden bridge used to span a portion of the length of the causeway and that this provided an opening through which the water could circulate.

The council agreed to request that the Ministry of the Environment and Ministry of Transportation and Communications be notified of the worsening situation and an engineering opinion on the value of placing the four culverts under the road be obtained before proceeding.

Teenager dies in 2 car crash

A 14 year old Lindsay girl is dead and two men are in Peterborough Civic Hospital after a two car collision last Thursday.

The girl, Donna J. Noppert, was a passenger in a 1978 car driven by James Larabie, 22, of Peterborough.

Larabie was travelling south on Highway 35, near Moore Falls and Leonard Box, 48, of Toronto was driving north in a 1977 car.

The two collided on a curve causing $7000 damage to Larabie's car and $9000 damage to Box's vehicle.

A post mortem was held on August 15 at Peterborough Civic Hospital by Dr. Blair Pierce of Haliburton.

Time of the accident was 7:55 p.m. Corporal Peter

Alexander and Constable Dennis Potter were the investigating officers.

The force of the impact that took the life of a Lindsay teenager is evident in the crumpled remains of one of the cars.

Objections to BIA heard by council

A petition bearing 19 names objecting to the creation of a Business Improvement Area in Minden has been received by the township council.

The petition was read at the August 13 meeting of the council.

The signators object to the fact that the plans for the improvement area are proceeding without details being made in advance as to how much money will be needed to carry out the work.

Councillor Stuart Brandon noted that some of those Minden merchants who had signed the petition had also responded positively to a survey of merchants taken before the BIA by-law was passed by the council. He said he was concerned that some of the information on which the petition had been based was incorrect.

In an effort to help resolve those differences, a meeting has been called for this evening (August 20) at the township offices. The meeting will deal with the objections of those who signed the petition and attempt to reach an understanding between those in favour of the improvement project and those voicing some reservations about the undertaking. The meeting starts at 7:30 p.m. and is open to businessmen in the area which has been designated for the improvement area.

Cottagers seek answers to acid rain problem

When all the questions about the causes and effects of acid rain have been asked and some answered, one question still remains - is there a solution and if so, will it work?

Thirty people from the Mountain Lake Property Owners' Association met on Sunday up at Archie Stouffer Elementary School to hear a panel discussion and afterwards air their own views on this subject.

Participating in the discussion was a representative from the Haliburton County Anti-Pollution Committee, Mike Collins, and a scientist from the Ministry of the Environment, Wolfgang Schneider, who has been specifically assigned to work on acid rain studies in this area.

Association chairman, Jim Russell explained that the purpose of the meeting was to talk about the possible advantages of one solution, liming, and what such an idea entails.

The association has been very active in trying to get some of their concerns expressed.

At their recent annual meeting, a letter outlining queries and suggestions was sent to various government officials, including Premier William Davis and MPP for Victoria-Haliburton John Eakins.

Schneider opened the discussion by clarifying the basic questions of what acid rain is, its sources, effects on humans, animals and the environment, and briefly, what the government is doing about the problem.

He said that he is currently involved in a fresh water resources group studying and researching effects of acid rain.

They have two 50 ft. trailers near Dorset, the field station, the head office is in Toronto. He said they work year round with a staff of eight and in the summer enlist the aid of about 12 students.

Basically, the need to gain information and to understand what the situation is before jumping in with a solution is the goal of the group's activities, he said.

One question that arises is why some lakes are acidic and some are not and why different levels of acidity are present in one lake.

Schneider stated that the long term solution to the problem would have to be international and that controlling acid rain at its source, pollution abatement at smoke stacks would be a beginning.

Collins came well-prepared and quoted from several sources including reports by Environment Minister, Harry Parrott and a couple of Swedish reports on acid rain.

What the Anti-Pollution Committee wants, he said, is increased funding into research into acid rain and a test liming program based on Swedish reports.

He noted that he and Schneider were actually on the same side and that it was Parrott to whom they should be directing their concerns.

Acid rain is formed when sulphur, which comes from coal emissions or gas from industrial smoke stacks, is oxidized in air and combines with rain to form a weak solution of sulphuric acid.

Using limestone in acid stressed lakes can neutralize the acid therefore reducing the harmful effects.

In Sweden, successful limestone techniques have been in operation for about 15 years.

Collins explained that they use a winter liming program which he said could also be effective in Canada.

He said the limestone is dumped on the periphery of the lake and creates a "weir effect". Then, when the spring runoff occurs, water will have to pass through the layer of limestone. Neutralization of the acidic water will be more effective, he reported.

If liming was done in the summer, he said, it would simply go to the bottom of the lake or river and produce less of a neutralizing effect.

Collins urged the people to put pressure on government officials saying it is one way of getting people to do something about the serious problem.

Schneider agreed with Collins assessment and said that the ministry is planning to start a small scale liming program to test its effectiveness. Both men agreed that inadequate funding is one of the main stumbling blocks in starting a campaign.

Near the end of the meeting, Russell read a letter from John Eakins expressing his support for their point of view.

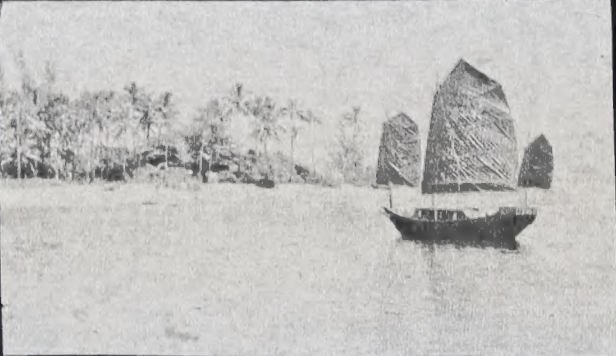

Russell added that response to the Association's letter has been positive and said he hoped for continued support.

White water opening set for September 13

The exciting and challenging sport of white water canoeing and kayaking has come to the Minden area.

The Ontario Wild Water Affiliation has purchased 1000 feet of shoreline along the rapids of the Gull River below Horseshoe Lake, just north of Minden at a cost of $50,900.

Last Wednesday evening there was an introductory tour and discussion at the scene which outlined future plans for the spot.

Sources for the substantial purchasing cost came from Canoe Ontario, Wintario, the Canadian National Sportsmen's Show Fund along with several other foundations and private companies.

The creation of the Preserve is the work of the Ontario Wild Water Affiliation, which is the chief organizer for the white water sport in Ontario.

This new facility, to be called the Minden Wild Water Preserve, will host the Provincial White Water championships on September 13 and 14. This is the date for the official opening of the Preserve.

On hand will be Reeve Sinclair Nesbitt, MPP John Eakins, MP Bill Scott and Charles Sauriol of the Nature Conservancy of Canada.

As part of the opening ceremonies a large sign will be unveiled and two top Canadian kayakers will ride down the rapids.

Next year, the Canadian National White Water Slalom Championships will be held from June 12 to 14 and plans are underway to host an International Slalom there in 1982.

Organizers say the spot is perfect for sporting activities but in addition provides nature trails and unusual cave formations, which were carved by glaciers thousands of years ago, which can be explored and enjoyed by the public whenever competition or practice is not going on.

Sometime in the future a local canoe and kayak club in Minden will be instituted and development of the site to be used as a training centre are planned projects. Estimates for the cost of training facilities are $50,000.

Officials speculate the possibility of white water activities becoming a part of the Summer Olympic program. The Minden site would be the logical training grounds.

The official opening takes place at 10 a.m. on September 13.

During the afternoon, practising will take place for the Provincial Championships while actual competition runs the next day from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Damage to the 1973 station wagon amounted to $3000.

The incident occurred at 12:35 a.m.

Forty-five hundred dollars was done to the 1974 car.

Trent Severn Waterway News

This past week in spite of a few showers, only light rainfall amounts occurred and good drying weather predominated. Over both the Trent and Severn watersheds this resulted in reduced water levels. Reservoir average storage depth declined to 87.7% of maximum which is about 18% above the 10 year average.

The reservoir area with the greatest lake levels is the lower Gull from Twelve Mile to Moores Lakes. This mainly results from rainfall surplus on the Maple Lake-Redstone - Haliburton branch upstream. In the Maple Lake chain of lakes and from Twelve Mile down, the flows are not being run at maximum, because of troubles already being experienced by residents along the river sections and smaller lakes.

Otonabee River flows from the Kawartha Lakes have been reduced from 115 cubic metres per second on August 8 to about 45 cubic metres today, August 15. This will probably be reduced a little further to hold the proper levels of the lakes against increased evaporation.

Lake Simcoe-Couchiching is responding to the dry weather and high outflows by reducing 7 cm from August 8 to August 15. This has resulted in lower flow along the Severn River and velocities in narrow sections are somewhat easier to negotiate by boat.

The Things I Prize
These are the things I prize
And hold of dearest worth:
Light of the sapphire skies,
Peace of the silent hills,
Shelter of the forest, comfort

Music of birds, murmur of Shadows of clouds that swiftly pass,

And, after showers,
The smell of flowers
And of the good brown earth—
And best of all, along the way, friendship and mirth.

Hint of the week:

To make your own fabric softener sheets, pour a few capfuls of any fabric softener into a small bowl of water, swish a washcloth of J-Cloth in the solution. Wring it out and toss into the dryer along with the wet clothes. It's that simple. Best of all, it is a lot less expensive than using the tear off sheet brands.

To build soundly, you must think constructively. Bye for now. Take it easy. God bless till next time.
